ANOTHER HERO GONE.

Private Belmont Dies From Disease Contracted in Cuba.

Another District volunteer has passed to the great beyond, as a result of his devotion to his country and its flag. Private Isadore B. Belmont, a member of the Fendleys, Company C, First Regiment District of Columbia Volunteer Infantry, died yesterday of diabetes, in Providence Hospital.

Private Belmont was removed to the hospital from his home, No. 36 K Street northeast, but three days ago. The fatal disease was contracted in the army. It resulted from the exposure and hardships incident to the service.

Private Belmont was one of the best known and most popular printers in Washington. He was a native of Alabama and was a protégé of former Secretary of the Navy Herbert.

He was one of the first to volunteer in the District regiment when the call for troops was made.

It was not until he boarded the transport for the homeward voyage that he fell ill in health.

While in Cuba he devoted much of his time to the care of his sick comrades, and was praised for his kindness by both officers and men.

The funeral will take place Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, from Gawler's undertaking rooms at 132 Pennsylvania Avenue. The Typographical Union and Myrtle Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will have representatives in attendance. The interment will be at Arlington with military honors, but the arrangements have not been completed.

ANNIE EISENBRAM STILL HELD.

Efforts of Her Lover to Free Her Prove Fruitless.

Walter Moyer, the young man who came up from Page County, Va., a few days ago to marry little Annie Eisenbram, of this city, is still waiting for his bride-elect to be delivered to him by the representatives of the law who have her in custody. Love may laugh at locksmiths, he thinks, but not the Board of Children's Guardians, for despite his entreaties and threats to "go to law about it," the agent of the board emphatically refuses to let him have possession of his sweetheart.

That Moyer failed to marry little Miss Eisenbram on Thursday is no fault of the girl's mother, who did everything in her power to have the marriage take place. Mrs. Eisenbram accompanied Moyer to the office of the clerk of court on Thursday morning for the purpose of securing a marriage license, and was very much in evidence in all that was said. She stated that Annie was not yet sixteen years of age, but as she was her mother and gave her consent to the marriage she could not see how anyone else could object. Her manner showed that she was very anxious that the marriage license should be procured, and that at once.

Two days before the marriage license was procured the bride-elect was turned over to the care of the Board of Children's Guardians.

After a long talk with Moyer, Mrs. Eisenbram, a member of the board, who had the child in custody, positively refused to release her. Moyer then got mad and went and consulted Lawyer Moss. He advised habeas corpus proceedings be instituted to gain possession of the girl, but afterwards this plan was abandoned.

In the meantime Annie remains in the custody and care of the Board of Guardians, and Mr. Moyer, a young fellow, another member of the board, are looking up Moyer's record and ability to provide for a wife.

PAINFUL COURT SCENE.

Henry Dungan, Bowed With Age, Confesses to Larceny.

A painful scene was witnessed in Criminal Court No. 1 this morning when Henry Dungan, an aged white man of decidedly respectable appearance was called before Chief Justice Bingham for sentence for the crime of petit larceny.

When asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be imposed, the prisoner, bowed with age and overcome by the disgrace which he had brought upon himself, stated that up to about a year ago he had led an upright, Christian life, but that he had succumbed to the power of strong drink. He admitted the commission of the offense charged and appealed to the court for mercy, promising that if given an opportunity he would reform.

Chief Justice Bingham noted on this suggestion and the prisoner was released upon his personal recognizance. The other sentences imposed were: Edward White, larceny, sent to the Reformatory for five years; William Young, highway robbery, four years; Columbus Ohio, larceny; Cornelius Johnson, grand larceny, larceny, one year and three months; Garfield and John Middleton, larceny, two years; Albert Washington, grand larceny, two years; five years in the penitentiary; Charles Williams, grand larceny, four separate charges, three years in penitentiary.

THINGS THEATRICAL.

"Romeo and Juliet" was sung with artistic grace last night at the Lafayette.

with the International Opera Company, with better spirited choral work and more dissection in form than "Faust," this composition has found less appreciation than the latter work, which abounds in flowing melodies. At the hands of yesterday evening's cast, "Romeo and Juliet" received vocal strength and acting suitable to the piece. The warm-hearted and genuinely pleased audience was won in an enthusiastic, and frequent demands added to the labors of the principals.

Tonight "Il Trovatore" will be sung with Thomas Collins as Manrico.

The chorus of the De Angelis Opera Company, which opens at the Lafayette next Monday, is said to be one of the best that has been recruited in New York for many seasons. It was certainly the first to be engaged this summer, and Ben D. Stevens, manager of the De Angelis organization, expended nearly three hours a day for almost two months in the selection of the voices to be heard here. By commencing early he is said to have been enabled to get his pick of the most available contingent and, if one is to believe what he is told, has come very near to getting the cream of that attractive chorus of operatic talent. The chorus is said to be not only acquired the best of singers for the ensemble work of "The Jolly Musketier," but that he has also secured the best looking and the best "acting" ladies and gentlemen in this branch of stage work. The deft, modestly but firmly enunciated by the De Angelis Opera Company, is consequently, large, round and emphatic. Undoubtedly, a large contingent of the "bunch" will be on hand to pass judgment on the entire chorus when "The Jolly Musketier" shall open next Monday.

There is, in the judgment of many better American dramatic capitalists, no better property than an individual on the stage can thus be commercially termed—in the opinion today than Della Fox, the popular and chic comedienne, who is to appear at the New National next Monday night in "The Little Host." Consequently, when it was known that she was going to produce her new operatic comedy, written by Edgar Smith and Louis de Lora, this season not less than a dozen of these speculative gentlemen are said to have made overtures to her, offering to advance almost any sum for the privilege of receiving a modicum of the profits. To each and all of these parties Miss Fox declared that she was resolved this season to make money for herself, and that she would make money for other people and she thought herself justified in securing what returns there might be for herself. This property, "The Little Host," which has become her own financial backer. "The Little Host" cost a great deal to produce, as it is said to be fully represented a representation of the most comic opera in which Miss Fox has ever appeared.

The Byrne Brothers will be seen next week at the Columbia Theater in an entirely new, speedy and rushing act, entitled "Going to the Races," which will be given with new and startling pantomime tricks, wonderful mechanical effects and a host of novel surprises.

There has been a very general, but mistaken, idea that the Byrne Brothers have retired. This is entirely untrue, for the entire Byrne family, four in number, are seen in the new production, appearing in parts written especially for them. "Going to the Races" is of the New York variety, and is a most successful and realistic effect. Other cards are the comic horse scene and the real strong engine, with its team of funny white horses.

"The Prisoner of Zenda" will be presented next week at the Academy of Music by a first class company, sent here by Dan and Frohman, managers of the New York Lyceum Theater. The play has proven to be one of the greatest successes of the last decade. It was first given at Mr. Frohman's theater, with E. H. Sothern in the title role, and it is the best of the road this star was followed by Howard Gould, who has done it ever since and will do it here.

"The Prisoner of Zenda" has been seen on the stage and read in novel form too widely to require an extended exposition of its plot and story. The dramatization made by E. H. Sothern, and the success of his task in a wonderfully clever manner. The airy atmosphere of romance preserved throughout the story, and the Not the least charm of the piece is its sentiment.

Although this is the third year that the play has been before the public, it has lost none of its attractiveness of its action, its special scenery is carried, and a good company will be seen in the interpretation. Howard Gould will head the cast, and is to be assisted by E. F. McManis, Mace Greenleaf, Albert Perry, Holden Chandler, Duncan Harris, Peter Connors, Margaret Fuller, Nellie Strickland, Amy Ricard and the title role, and the story of the engagement here of "The Prisoner of Zenda."

"The Finish of Mr. Fresh" which comes to the Grand Opera House, is said to be one of the most amusing farces on the road this year. Manager Butler has secured an excellent list of attractions for his season at this theater, and the present production is said to be one of the best. The piece is in two acts, and is a good service of an especially trained company.

For nearly a generation the name and fame of Rice and Bartley has been growing, and slowly but surely they have reached the top of the burlesque ladder. They are said to invest more heavily in the theatrical business each season, and as they are no longer hampered by the want of money with which to operate, are putting out more companies, better equipped in every way than ever before. They have now on route three large organizations—the "Rose Hill English Folly Company," "McDoodle's Flats" and the "Big Gaiety Company." With the last they travel themselves, and appear at every performance. It appears here presenting a triple bill, two complete burlesques and an unusually strong olio. The opening piece is in three scenes, and is said to be a very good one. The New York's famed tenderloin district. In the old Barton and Eckhoff, Swan and Bamford, the ever-increasing favor of the "Rose Hill English Folly Company," the "Vivier and Elsie;" the "Little Princess Sisters;" Little Africa, sensational dancer; Pat Toubey and Charles Mack; Eddie Miles and Daisy Raymond appear. The concluding burlesque, "The Conqueror," is said to be a very good one. It has been rewritten and thoroughly revised since its last local hearing. The organization will be seen next week at Kernan's.

The Bijou program for next week bears a number of familiar names, among them many which have heretofore and probably always will be associated with all that is entertaining and artistic in vaudeville. The Bijou Stock Company will open the performance with one of its clever skits, and is to be followed by an olio of more than usual excellence.

The Gentlemanly Rattlesnake.

CONTRASTED WITH THE GHOULISH GERM.

Imagine a man's path leading him through a section of country in which there were millions of rattlesnakes! With what caution and circumspection he would take every step. He would, however, have a fair chance of coming to his journey's end in safety, because rattlesnakes, like an old-fashioned clock, warn of their approach. The rattlesnake stands as the type of the deadliest foe of the human race. But there are foes quite as deadly and more to be feared than rattlesnakes. Germs that strike at the vital centers of life, germs of foul diseases deadly as the venom of the snake, and giving no warning of their presence, infect the air we breathe, the water we drink, and are introduced into the blood they multiply with fearful rapidity, absolutely eating up the very principle of life. Compared with a disease germ a rattlesnake is a gentleman. He is a fair fighter. He tells you to look out. You have a chance to fight or run. The disease germ sneaks upon you. It comes while you are sleeping. It gains an entrance to the blood. In a few days or even hours it multiplies to millions until your blood is full of its offspring. They go all over the body seeking a weak spot. They don't rattle—they strike.

"The blood is the life," and the germ assaults the blood. The microscope reveals the germ of malaria, hookworm, the blood poisoning, the blood poisons, the blood poisons. You've cracked a hazel nut some time and found in it nothing but dust and a little white worm. The meat of the nut is all eaten up. The malaria germ eats out the vital principle of the corporeal in just that way. The result is collapse. The thought of a rattlesnake frightens you. Yet the snake is dangerous only because it is a blood sucker, minding, like a mole, a passage-way along the veins and arteries by which it is preparing to assault the citadel of life.

The condition of the blood which indicates the underlying danger to the case is marked by languor, a feeling of sluggishness, dull headache, inability to make any effort in business and indifference to all forms of pleasure. The appetite is lost, the breath foul, disturbing dreams rob the sleep of all refreshing influence. There is nervousness and irritation. The blood seems hot in the finger tips, the face is hot, the eyes burn, and specks seem to float before them. These symptoms will not all be present at once, as they belong to different stages of the disease. It is dangerous to any one person will experience them all. But any of such symptoms indicate the prompt need of a tonic, a medicine that will put vitality into the blood, and drive out the germ that is to destroy and cast out the invading germs.

In such a condition the remarkable efficacy of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been proved over and over again in thousands of cases. Acting directly on the organs of digestion and nutrition, and upon the blood-making glands, its first influence is to strengthen the entire system, clearing away obstructions and carrying away the waste products of the system. The blood is enriched and the germs of disease, which, like all other parasites, flourish best in filth, forsake the blood which is cleansed by the action of the medicine. "Golden Medical Discovery" works with nature. It comes to nature when she is worn out with fighting, just like a timely rest after a long and weary journey, and with new strength and power nature battles against disease and overcomes it.

There is no alcohol, whisky or other stimulant in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This will prove that it is a tonic medicine. Most so-called tonics are loaded with alcohol. They only brace up for the time, reacting injuriously upon the system, and making the body like a spur to a horse. The "Discovery" acts like a good sound meal. The meal makes more horse. The spur makes more speed but makes less meat, because it puts nothing into the body to replace the strength taken out of it in response to the spur. "Golden Medical Discovery" makes more man with every dose, and more man means a real gain in strength.

The remarkable action of this remedy, the quickness with which it searches out disease, is marked in the following letter:

"I was troubled with malaria fever and was under doctors' care for quite a time," writes Mr. J. F. Kidd, of Parkersville, Wayne Co., Ky. "They had almost driven me up the wall, and my suffering was very great. My pulse was weak, breath short, and I had severe pains in back, head and legs. Had palpitation of heart, and from June 1, 1885, to May 1, 1886, I was unable to do a day's work. I purchased five bottles of Dr. R. V. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and before I had finished taking the first two bottles I was much better of my disease of three years' standing. I continued taking the medicine, and by the time the fifth bottle was gone I was a well man. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to any similar sufferer."

Such testimony as this is the most practical and convincing argument which can be advanced for the "Golden Medical Discovery." Thousands upon thousands have used it and 98 per cent of these have found a cure even when vitality had fallen to a low ebb, and distressing cough, bleeding at the lungs, and other serious symptoms had appeared. Women as well as men have tested this medicine, and the following letter is typical of tens of thousands received from women grateful for health and healing:

"Words fail to express what I suffered for years, with chronic indigestion, palpitation of heart, shortness of breath, and low spirits," writes Mrs. A. C. Jones, of Waterboro, Colleton County, S. C. "I could not sleep, and really thought I would soon die. Had a peculiar routing through my head all the time. Was so emaciated and weak I could not feed myself. My aunt induced me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I did, only to please her, and six bottles cured me. Today I am sound and well."

During the three years I was sick I had five different physicians.

The long experience which Dr. Pierce has had as consulting physician in chief to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y., gives him a keen interest in those cases which are peculiar in many of their symptoms and greater in their sufferings than ordinary cases. After more than thirty years' experience, and remembering that the cases brought to Dr. Pierce are usually extreme and often pronounced "hopeless" by other physicians, it may be reasonably inferred that the skill which has successfully treated 98 in every 100 will be equal to any new demand that you can make upon it.

The surest way for the sick to gain confidence is to consult Dr. Pierce by letter. For this consultation there is positively no charge, absolutely no fee, and no obligations whatever are incurred by this correspondence. Every letter is read by Dr. Pierce as a strictly private and sacredly confidential communication. It has the careful consideration of a physician of experience. Its carefully weighed answer, always mailed in a plain envelope so your private affairs are kept safe from prying eyes, carries fatherly advice as well as medical instructions. The dealer who offers a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery" fishes not only his customer's money to make an extra profit, but also his health. For in so doing he is introducing into the stomach, blood, and lungs, insatiable hunger for the "Discovery."

Thattinger's remedy with which Dr. Pierce's great work, the "People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," has been received by scientific men and students in 1908 pages may be found in the answer to it. It is written in the simplest English, and its story of life, marriage, motherhood, and sickness is told in the plainest of words. Yet educated professional men write of it in such terms as Dr. H. P. Phillips, of South Wake, Hillsboro, N. H., Box 21, who says: "I have received the book you sent me, and am very much pleased with it. I think it is a very important work, and it would be a Godsend to every family throughout the whole world to have one of them." The book is essentially a household book. It sets a light upon those fearful roils and shoals of life on which the ignorant are so frequently wrecked. Within its 1908 pages may be found the answer to almost every question concerning human physiology and reproduction, with specific instructions for nursing and the treatment of disease which will save any family hundreds of dollars. This book is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay the expense of mailing only. Send twenty-one dollar stamps for the scope of the work, and thirty-one stamps for the cloth edition. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
